

There is most definitely an excessive amount of violence on television. It is easily accessed by young children during the day and early evening hours.